

Manually Created but Incomplete Site Guide

Please note: This webpage will soon be redundant because the TAC website's navigation and search facilities are being improved.

Finding what you're looking for

There are over 1,000 documents on the TAC website and new ones are added frequently. No categorisation will suit everyone, but if you have a suggestion for how we should categorise a particular document or set of documents, please email us at info@tac.org.za.

Unfortunately, not all documents on the site can be accessed from this page. Doing so would require an enormous amount of work. TAC's statements and newsletters are under the Newsletters option on the side menu. Researchers should definitely consult the newsletters to find all relevant documentation. The newsletters are chronologically arranged.

The TAC website is searchable using google (click Search on the side menu). Results returned by google are generally good.
