A tradition that is as old as marriage is probably a stag party. If you are nervous about your marriage or you have a lot of tension and pressure building up inside you, then the right way to get relaxed is to sort out your stag weekend ideas. The destinations that you can party at for your stag party are limitless, some part in London, some in Berlin and some in Dubai, however the one ingredient that is going to make every single stay party a success is the ideas behind it. Once you have a customized idea that is going to be appreciated by one and all, including the stag you know you are going to be on your way to have a lot of fun and some sheer awesomeness. When you are planning your stag weekend ideas there are certain things that you need to lookout for, as mentioned below.

Important aspects to keep track of ?

1. It is good to not get carried away with your stag weekend ideas; you need to make sure that you have an eye on the budget as well as on the activities that are part of the plan. Make sure your friends don't need to shell out more than they can afford to.
2. Keep a friend in charge of the money, passport, itinerary, etc so that at least one of you remains responsible while you are having a blast partying and having a great time.
3. Since you have an entire weekend to plan up, make sure you have the right gear to participate in all the activities. Skiing, scuba diving, rafting, surfing etc, you need the right gear and the right clothes, so don't forget to pack up. Don't make your party a normal one where you go to the club and party the night and wake up with a hangover, make sure this is one weekend you enjoy with the right stag weekend ideas.
